BATTERING WAY TO LENS AND LILLE

French and English Forces in a Big Offensive Movement

(Special to The Herald)
Paris, Nov. 15.—The first great co-operation of general staff officers between England and France is under way. From Arras to Ypres, the Anglo-French troops have begun a furious offensive. The French and British guns are pounding the German lines night and day. The offensive has a double object—first the capture of Lens and Lille, and second to prevent the transportation of German troops from the Western to the Eastern front in the Balkans.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Another battle has developed in Arras. The French war office reported today that heavy fighting was in progress north of Arras. The losses of the Germans in the engagement of November 1 are very heavy and the Germans were repulsed on every hand.

WILL GO AFTER EVERYBODY

Implicated in Any Way in Plots Against Munition Plants.

(Special to The Herald)
Washington, Nov. 15.—Every person against whom legal evidence can be procured, showing complicity in the plots against the American munition factories, or in any way against the neutrality of the United States, will be prosecuted in every way. From now until the end of the war, the special agents will hunt their efforts to secure evidence strong enough to present to the grand jury and by direction of the President, the Department of Justice will see that such cases are kept to a special trial. It is understood that if any person officially accredited to any of the ambassadors of the warring nations are shown to have been active in plots detrimental to the interests of the United States, their recall will be demanded.

ROTARY CLUB
The third annual exhibition of the Boston Rotary Club will be held this week November 16 to 20 at the Horticultural Hall.

CAPTURED 8500 SERBIANS

Berlin Reports Steady Advance in the Balkans.

Berlin, November 15.—The capture of 8,500 more Serbians and twelve more cannon by the Austro-German and Bulgarian forces was reported this morning by the war office. In the Western theatre of war the Germans stormed three hundred yards of French trenches. In the Eastern front the Russians have been cleared from the Stry river.

TO RE-INSTATE POSTMASTER

Man Who Criticised President Wilson Will Go Back.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Formal announcements were made today that President Wilson had requested the Postmaster-General to reinstate Asst. Postmaster George Burdett of Winnetka, who was alleged to have been dismissed on account of his statement, that he thought that President Wilson could at least wait a year before he married, providing it was found that this was the real cause or had anything to do with his dismissal.

MRS. MARY A. BURNS CHARGED WITH MURDER

Opening of Trial Before Chief Justice R. G. Pike --Appears in Court Calm and Collected-- Jury Being Drawn

The Rockingham County court house was staged this Monday morning for the trial of Mrs. Mary A. Burns, who is charged with the murder of her husband, Frank A. Burns, at Nottingham, on Dec. 22, 1914. For this trial a special panel of jurors had been drawn as the case is expected to last a week or even longer.

At the opening of court the room was well filled with spectators and witnesses.

Mrs. Burns Arrives.

At 10:05 Mrs. Burns, accompanied by Mrs. Shaw, wife of Deputy Sheriff Wilbur B. Shaw, and her senior counsel, Col. John H. Bartlett, made her appearance. She was attired in a blue dress and wore an overgarment of a darker shade of blue. Her hair was trimmed with black velvet and blue ribbon. She took her seat in the enclosure reserved for the legal fraternity and witnesses. She appeared calm and collected and watched attentively the juryman as they were drawn and questioned by Attorney General Tuttle for the state, and Col. John H. Bartlett for the defense.

Mrs. Burns Appears Calm.

Prior to the impaneling of the jury in response to the calling of her name by Chief Justice Pike, Mrs. Burns stood up in court. She displayed apparently no emotion and did not seem to notice that the eyes of practically everyone in the court were fixed upon her.

Shortly before 10:30 the serenity of the court room was disturbed by the crying of a young child that had been brought to the court by his mother and they later were sent to an anteroom by Sheriff Spence.

Relatives Are Present.
Seated near Mrs. Burns in the enclosure was her mother, Mrs. Davis, and her sister, Mrs. Fred Gove of Nottingham, and she conversed freely with her mother, who sat on her right.

The state's interest is being looked after by Attorney General James P. Tuttle of Manchester, County Solicitor Albert R. Hatch and ex-County Solicitor Ernest L. Chappell.

The defendant is represented by Col. John H. Bartlett, John L. Mitchell and Ralph C. Gray.

SYNOPSIS.

On the day of the eruption of Mount Pelée, Capt. John Hardin of the steamer Princess vacated five-year-old Annette Hamilton from an open boat, but is forced to leave behind her father and his companions. Hamilton is rescued by Hernandez and Ponto in a vain attempt to get papers which Hamilton has managed to send aboard the steamer. Hernandez and Ponto are proving his title to and telling the whereabouts of the lost island of Chinabac. Hamilton's injury causes his mind to become a blank. Thirteen years elapse. Hernandez, now an expert smuggler, with Ponto, Inez, a female accomplice, and the islanders brute that once was Hamilton, come to Seaport, where the widow of Captain Hardin is living with her son Neal and Annette Hamilton, and plot to steal the papers left by Annette. Hernandez, who is attracted by her father, Neal tries for admission to the Naval academy, but through the treachery of Joe Welcher is defeated. Joe and disgraced Neal enlist in the navy. Inez sets a trap for Joe and the conspirators get him in their power. Annette discovers that her father is a traitor and reveals the location of the lost island. In a struggle for possession of the island, Annette and Neal each secure a portion. Annette sails on the Coronado in search of her father. The crew mutiny, and are overcome by a boarding party from U. S. Destroyer Jackson, led by Neal. In Martinique Annette and Neal are captured, but are rescued by a strong diver. Inez forges identification papers for herself as Annette. In an insurrection Neal and Annette are again captured, carried to the Sun City and Annette is offered as a sacrifice to the sun god. They are rescued by marines from the Albany. Landed in Tortuga, Annette and Neal are captured and exposed to yellow fever infection by Hernandez, but are rescued by sailors from the Albany.

TENTH INSTALLMENT
THE ROLLING TERROR

CHAPTER XLVI.

A Hold-Up.

The captain of the cruiser Albany had his men scour the country round about, but—as had ever been the case with Hernandez and his nimble-footed crew—without result.

"At any rate," he said, "the rascals have run away—they've probably shown us their heels for all time. You go to Chantillo, Miss Hamilton. You take that one-horse train here—we'll escort you to the train. Over at Chantillo lies the Missouri, a first-class battleship. I'll give you a note to her commander. He'll see you safe on board the South California boat."

Neal and a small guard of marines constituted Annette's escort. Annette laughed when she saw the station—laughed more when she saw the train. It consisted of the sorriest engine she had ever seen—also the most dilapidated and battered coach. "Look here," said Neal to Annette, "come inside the station. I want to show you something."

Annette knew. Inside she broke down and cried like a child. "It's good-by now, Neal," she said, "I don't know what I'm going to do without you. I feel like almost going back."

"By George," said Neal, "I wish—but no. You'll stick it out. I know you will. I'm sure. But, if it

"Look—see!" Exclaimed the brute, "tough on you—think of me. I feel like chucking you my job."

A tin horn blew outside. "What's that?" cried Annette.

Mrs. Hardin and Joe Welcher rushed into the station. "The train—the train," they cried.

They were quite right. The engineer was already pulling his rusty locomotive. The train actually was starting up, stationary though it had seemed.

station at La Plaza he found an undercurrent of excitement present upon the cruiser Albany. Half an hour after his return the captain of the cruiser had received a wireless from Washington. It was significant in its tenor. The wireless operator handed it to him as it was received.

"The captain glanced at it. 'It looks important,' he said; 'decide it at once.'"

It was decided. This is what it said: GENERAL ORDERS FROM NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Deciphered From Code "G." War Imminent with Alemania. Keep all ships prepared for action. Transfer all possible men to Pacific squadron. Recommend meritorious warrant officers for promotion to commission.

HUTCHINSON,

Chief of Staff.

An order from Washington is an order. An order when war is imminent is a double quick order. The captain of the cruiser Albany had been waiting for double quick orders—he had smelled them in the air. He had felt them in his bones. In one hour he had picked his men. The first man he summoned was Neal.

"Neal," he said, calling him by name, "I've recommended you for a commission."

Neal jumped out of his shoes almost. "I—a commission," he gasped; "why—I thought—I can't understand—"

"Don't think," said the captain sharply; "we've got to act."

"He handed Neal typewritten instructions. 'You'll get your commission in due form. My recommendations go—particularly at a time like this. Take fifty men at once—and proceed to join the battleship Missouri at Chantillo. That's all.'"

Neal saluted and swung about. "Wait," said the captain. Neal waited. "I just want to shake hands, old man," said the captain. "You deserve your luck if ever man did. Good-by."

An hour afterwards Neal and his squad were at La Plaza once more, consulting the railroad master.

"We want a train, and right away," said Neal. "The road will make its fortune. It will declare a dividend. When does she go?"

"Not for two days or so. The engine—the good one—she is being repaired."

"What can we do?" said Neal.

The station master brightened. He desired at all costs to get this squad of Americans out of town. They were rioters—at least so Ponto had informed him. Yes, they must go.

"Ah, señor," he said, "I have an idea. There are dirt train-cars—no engine—but what you call, almost gravity road from here to Chantillo—all downhill almost all the way."

"Show me," said Neal.

He was shown. "Well," he said to his men, "what do you say, boys. They'll rock us some, but they're the best we can do. Is the road clear?"

"Clear all the way, señor. The last train—the little train—she have arrived at Chantillo now."

"We're game," said his men; "come on!"

They came on—that is they got on—the whole squad. A crowd of natives saw them off. One of these natives, hidden from view by the others, crawled under the foremost car and did something. He crawled to the second and did something. What he did no one knew.

Down the line at the deserted shack labeled "Montreda," Hernandez came out from within, with complete satisfaction written on his face.

Hernandez sauntered out and glanced up the track. The track was straight and downhill all the way. It was like a canyon cut through a mass of undergrowth and heavy trees. There was nothing to distract the attention—it was a clean cut avenue as far as the eye could reach. He watched.

Up the track somewhere the troop train was shooting curves with sprightly lurches. "Getting a bit too lively," said Neal; "better apply the brakes."

The order was obeyed—so far as the will was concerned. But the man at the brakes shook his head. "Brakes won't work," he said.

"No matter," said Neal, "we reach the bottom of this hill three miles out of Chantillo. Then we go up. We're bound to slacken up sometime."

One of his men plucked him by the sleeve. "What's that?" he cried, pointing down through the canyon, flanked by trees. "Look ahead."

"By George!" said Neal, "a train. The brakes—every man jack of you—the brakes!"

"The brakes wouldn't work. 'Fanny,' said Neal; "we tried before we started. Fanny they won't work." It may or may not have been funny—but it was the fact. The brakes would not work.

"We're in for it," said Neal. "Boys, every man jack of you—you've got to face this. That jungle is soft stuff—it's a velvet lining. We may get scratched, but we can't get hurt. Every man of you get ready and when I say the word slide off—as easy as you can—but slide. Guns and equipment first—then yourselves—when I say the word."

Squatted on the edge of the jungle was the brute. He looked up the track, idly following Hernandez' gaze. Suddenly he rose—quivering with excitement.

"Look—see!" he said. His glance turned dumbly from the rushing troop train to the stationary one. Another man might have rushed to the latter and warned its occupants or carried them out. But not the brute. He had a glimmering. He started off.

"Come back," said Hernandez, "you beast."

The brute never heard him. He only heard the rushing train. He seized a loose rail lying by the track. He thrust it under the stationary rail.

the nearest him—he thrust it into the roadbed. He jerked and strove at it like a demon.

Within, Joe Welcher heard it coming. He looked now. He gave one gasp, made one dive, and plunged into the safety of the jungle.

Hernandez dared not move. Safety lay in his remaining up track—out of the danger zone below. He felt that the brute was doing fruitless work—that no man, no human agency within a minute's time could raise that rail. He didn't know—there was something superhuman within the brute. He was more than a man—he was a man-driven beast—perhaps God-driven.

He plied his giant lever like a giant.

SULTAN H

KIDNAPPED HIS WIFE FROM HERE SATURDAY

Henry Hobbs Carried Woman by Automobile to Lonely House in Atkinson From Which She Was Rescued by Officers Early Sunday Morning

The woods between Atkinson and Haverhill, Mass., were surrounded last evening by a posse of officers and special officers, searching for Henry Hobbs of Haverhill, who is wanted for one of the boldest kidnappings cases the Rockingham county officials have ever had to contend with. Hobbs is known to be well armed and has threatened bodily harm to anyone who dares to come near him.

Hobbs is wanted for the kidnapping of his wife, Mrs. Milla Damon Hobbs of this city. In company of his brother Charles, another man, the latter dressed as a police officer, came here Saturday night and took her to a lonely house in Atkinson, where he had been living, and then choked her, threatened her life unless she sign a release to some property.

She was rescued at 5:00 o'clock Sunday morning by Deputy Sheriff Wilbur B. Shaw and Judge J. L. Guphill of this city. When found by the officer she was in a state of physical and mental collapse after her night of terror.

Mrs. Hobbs has been separated from her husband for some time, and has been living in Portsmouth on South street, keeping house for Mr. Almon H. Jenness, her husband's uncle. She had already instituted proceedings for a divorce.

On Saturday evening, shortly before 7:00 o'clock, a man dressed as an officer, knocked at the Jenness door. He informed Mrs. Hobbs that Judge Ernest L. Guphill wanted to see her at his office. Thinking that Judge Guphill, who is acting as her counsel, wanted to consult with her, she stepped into an auto which was waiting. The car was immediately started at a high speed and the wild ride to Atkinson was under way.

During the ride, her husband, who had remained unseen in the car, until she was in, made her life miserable for more than two hours, alternately attempting to make love to her and abusing and threatening her. When passing through towns she was prevented from making any utterances by the placing of his hand over her mouth. About 10:00 o'clock so she thinks, the car stopped in front of a house which she recognized as that belonging to her husband in Atkinson, near the Massachusetts and New Hampshire boundary line.

Mrs. Hobbs was taken into the house and she and her husband were left alone, the man in uniform and Hobbs' brother, going to Haverhill.

It was not until eleven o'clock that the authorities knew anything of the affair when Mr. Jenness, becoming worried over the long absence of Mrs. Hobbs called at the police station. He asked Captain Burke where Mrs. Hobbs was and then found that no local officer had gone for her. Captain Burke then called Judge Guphill on the telephone and as soon as he heard the particulars, he notified Deputy Shaw and together they started in an automobile to hunt her up. In the meanwhile the local police sent out men, but other than the fact that the automobile bore a Massachusetts register and was a Ford they could learn nothing.

Suspecting Mrs. Hobbs' husband of having caused the kidnapping, Judge Guphill and Deputy Shaw went to Haverhill and not finding any trace of her there, went to the Hobbs' place at Atkinson. In Haverhill they found out that Hobbs' brother owned a Ford car and the Haverhill police were asked to find him.

At Atkinson the Hobbs' house was in darkness and an examination showed the windows boarded up and the doors locked. While working about the building they heard Mrs. Hobbs crying inside and Deputy Shaw promptly demanded admittance. At first Hobbs refused to open the door, but finally he recognized Shaw and opened the door, and when the officers entered, without waiting to see what they wanted, he made a dash and disappeared in the woods in the rear of the house.

Mrs. Hobbs was found in a lower room in an exhausted and nervous condition. She informed the officers that Hobbs had locked her in after his brother left, and then began to abuse her in an attempt to get her to sign a deed that he had ready for her. She refused and he knocked her down and then choked her until she thought she was going to die. After hours of this treatment which he alternated in trying to get her signature by abusing her and then by attempting to make love to her, he finally gave it up. Looking all of the doors and taking the keys he informed her that all of the windows were boarded up, he went upstairs to bed, leaving her in a room down stairs. Hobbs was armed with a revolver and

SHIFTING OF CAPTAIN WILSON FROM QUARTER TO HALFBACK HAS HELPED YALE TEAM

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 15.—Captain Wilson of the Yale squad is now the popular idol of the football world here. It was Wilson himself who suggested to Coach Hinkley that he be taken from the position at quarter and placed at halfback. He was not a success at quarter but his playing in practice and in the last two games at halfback has been excellent. Wilson's mind is now set on a victory over Harvard, and he has hopes of taking the Cambridge students into camp in the final game of the season.

A forty-four rifle, both loaded and the woman did not dare to stir until she heard the voices of Judge Guphill and Deputy Shaw.

In the meanwhile the Haverhill police had arrested Charles Hobbs, who had driven the kidnapping car and they found him pretty well under the influence of liquor. He denied any knowledge of the identity of the man who acted as the police officer, but said that he thought he came from Boston.

Sunday morning Sheriff Ceylon Spence of Rockingham County, arrived in Atkinson with warrants for the arrest of all of the men implicated and Charles Hobbs will be brought back here today. No trace was found of Henry Hobbs, although officers searched the woods about his house. Hobbs was lightly clothed when he made his escape and the County officials think that he will be found shortly. Mrs. Hobbs was brought back to this city by Judge Guphill and is under the care of a physician. She could not be seen.

Mrs. Hobbs was suffering from her treatment at the hands of her husband and marks on her throat still showed the imprint of fingers. One side of her face was badly swollen and her mouth was slightly torn. Many of her friends called to see her but on account of her nervous condition it was not thought advisable to allow her to receive them.

It is understood that the deed that Hobbs was so anxious to get his wife to sign was for the sale of property in Atkinson. Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs were married in Kittery about two years ago and his wife only lived with him a year. He had served time in prison, but was said to have reformed and was working for some years as a conductor on the electric road which runs through Kittery and there met Miss Damon, who was a music teacher in the schools and a woman of excellent character.

A week or more ago Hobbs appeared at the local newspapers and tried to buy space to print a story about a suit he proposed to institute against "a well known resident of Haverhill" for alienation of his wife's affections. The story was so vague and Mrs. Hobbs' reputation was such, they refused to sell him space. Hobbs is also said to have threatened the life of Judge Guphill, his wife's counsel, when he served notice on him of Mrs. Hobbs' suit for divorce.

This county authorities are of the opinion that Hobbs is mentally unbalanced and exceedingly dangerous.

HOW "TRENCH CLEANERS" WORK

London, Nov. 15.—The official announcement that steel helmets have at last been adopted in the British army is a welcome imitation of what has already proved a great success amongst the French troops. An officer under General Castellan, in Champagne, has lately written testifying to the great utility of these and similar ancient and modern devices for protection in the trenches. The helmets are covered with the same grey blue cloth as the uniform, and even the water-bottles and other equipment are treated in like manner. The use of the helmets has now become universal.

A new use has been found for knives by what are called the "trench cleaners," who, after the first line has passed with the bayonet, follow on and despatch such of the enemy as offer resistance. These knives are described as a sort of knuckle-duster, the blade being strapped to the back of the hand, and can be effectively used either as a weapon of offense or defense.

Portsmouth, N. H., Monday, November 15, 1915.

News of the serious condition of Dr. Booker T. Washington, for years the foremost representative and acknowledged leader of the colored race in this country, has been received by the people of the United States with genuine regret. He is in St. Luke's hospital, New York city, under observation and treatment, apparently suffering from a nervous breakdown resulting from overwork and the encroachments of age, for Dr. Washington is no longer a young man.

With the career of this remarkable man the people of the country are familiar, and every right-minded man and woman takes pride in the record he has made. A member of the race that was freed from slavery by the great upheaval of '61 to '65, he rapidly rose above his surroundings and came to take a leading place as the representative of his people. From that day to this he has striven with all the might of an intellectual giant for the elevation of a race long crushed by the cruel weight of slavery, and what has been accomplished through his endeavors and sacrifices is beyond all computation.

Dr. Washington's hold has been equally strong upon the whites and the blacks. He has from the first enjoyed the perfect confidence of all. It is impossible to measure the influence he has brought to bear on one of the greatest political and social problems of the ages. As writer, orator, teacher and leader he has traveled from end to end of the country, coming in contact with the high and the humble, gathering aid with one hand and extending it with the other in furthering one of the highest aims that could engage the attention of any man devoted to the welfare of his fellow men. The work of Tuskegee Institute alone has been of immense value to the colored people and to the country, but Dr. Washington's influence has extended far beyond the limits of that great institution and has been nothing short of nation-wide.

There will be a general hope that he will be restored to a condition which will enable him to resume the work he has conducted so ably and successfully for many years. He is a leader and an upbuilder in every sense of the word, and while he has by no means been alone in the task of leading the colored race forward to better things, his individuality and work have been such as to give him a warm place in the hearts of the people and a permanent place in the history of his country.

At the opening of the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor at San Francisco, Samuel Gompers, its president, declared that it is the ultimate purpose of the federation to eliminate women and children from the shops and factories of the country. Just how this is to be done is not made clear, and it will have to be conceded that under existing conditions it is a very ambitious program.

The claim that there are better times ahead rests upon a very solid foundation. The crops of the country exceed all previous records, their aggregate value being more than five billions of dollars, a big increase over the value of the banner crops of last year. And for most crops prices are such that the farmers are actually in clover.

In a Massachusetts court the other day a man was sentenced to one year in the house of correction for assaulting a woman, and then the sentence was suspended on condition that he leave the state. Will crime ever be eliminated or greatly reduced by passing law breakers around in this way?

It seems that the Russians have learned how to fix up alcohol so that it is reasonably palatable as well as highly intoxicating, to be used in place of the prohibited vodka. Thus it is made clear that Yankees are not the only people who know how to squirm through the meshes of an unpopular law.

Chicago saloon keepers are fighting vigorously for their right to sell cigars, buttermilk, mineral waters and other "non-intoxicants" on Sundays, when the saloons are supposed to be closed. There have been lively times in the Windy City since the attempt was made to press down the Sunday lid.

No more cordial felicitations were received by the emperor of Japan upon his accession to the throne than those from President Wilson. The United States and Japan are on the best of terms despite all past agitations by fire-eaters and alarmists.

President Wilson has appointed ex-President Taft as chairman of the central committee of the American Red Cross to succeed Major General George W. Davis, retired. There is no politics in this appointment.

China has decided to go back to monarchy, but it is stated that the change will not be made this year. However, it is not a very long time to next year.

CURRENT OPINION

United States Should Be So Strongly Prepared That No Nation Dare Attack!

What a father would do to protect his children a government should do to protect the people. It is the duty of our government, concentrated on the welfare of the United States, to make such preparations and authorize such expenditures as will save us from the experience, the horrors inflicted upon the nations of Europe.

If the government has its duty the individual citizen also has his duty. This is my suggestion:

Let Americans, blessed with peace and safety, spend in relieving the unfortunate of Europe at least a part of what war would cost us individually if the blessings of peace were removed.

Let every man rich enough to pay an income tax give to the war sufferers an amount equal to his income tax. Very quickly would our income tax be doubled, trebled and quadrupled if war should come upon us. Let us show our gratitude not by eagerly striving for profit, but by proving sympathy. For each voluntarily to tax himself, for the well to do of this nation to contribute a fund of fifty million dollars or more in the year to the unhappy sufferers of the nations at war would be to give practical proof that we appreciate the peace blessing. I advocate that proof.

To believe in peace and that it can be permanent; to work for peace and to strive to keep it when at last we get it—that is our duty. To prepare this nation vigorously, fully, against war so that no nation may think of attacking us—that is our duty.—By Nathan Straus, Philanthropist.

CITY TREASURER FOR 19 YEARS

William K. Chadwick Dies at Dover.

City Treasurer William K. Chadwick of Dover died Sunday night after a few days' illness at the Wentworth hospital, Dover, aged about 68.

He had served continuously as city treasurer since 1897, creating a record for the office.

Mr. Chadwick was born at Dover, a son of Daniel and Louisa Seavey Chadwick and spent his entire life here with the exception of a few months spent at business college at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. At the outbreak of the Civil war he left school and went to work. In 1861 he remained until 1866 when he went to business school. Returning, he spent 12 years clerking in dry goods stores and in 1878 entered the counting room of the Coopers Manufacturing Company as assistant paymaster, serving until he was elected city treasurer.

He was a charter member of Olive Branch Lodge, K. of P., and has served nearly forty-five years as an officer of the lodge, 38 of which he was master of the exchequer. He was a member of the Pythian Grand Lodge and chairman of the finance committee about 20 years. He was a charter member of the Dover Lodge of Elks, past exalted ruler and for several years treasurer of the lodge. He was also a member of Calvary Temple, Pythian Sisters and Dover Grange.

He never married. He is survived by his mother with whom he lived.

DINNER GIVEN TO J. A. SMALL

In Honor of 50 Years' Service With Same Firm at Portland.

In celebration of his 50th year of continuous service with them, a complimentary dinner was given to James E. Small of 21 Harris street, Portland, in the Red Room at Riverton Casino recently by A. E. Stevens and Company of 15 Union street. The party was a stag affair and the other employees of the firm and one or two intimate friends of Mr. Small, former employees of the company being present.

Yesterday marked the beginning of the 51st year of Mr. Small's employment with this firm, he having first become connected with it when about 23 years of age. Though Mr. Small is now 73 years old, he is yet one of the most valued and efficient members of the circle of employees.

S. A. Stevens in a brief speech presented Mr. Small, who was taken completely by surprise, with a purse of gold. The recipient managed to make a short address in reply to the presentation, however. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock and the company returned to Portland shortly after 9 o'clock.

He is a member of the First Free Baptist church and added to his six days of excellent work for the firm, spending, according to his intimate friends, a great part of his Sundays visiting the sick and unfortunate, and doing what good he is able.

With his wife Mr. Small has lived almost the whole of the 50 years he has been employed with A. E. Stevens & Company, at the same residence he now occupies at 21 Harris street.

Mr. Small is the twin brother of the late John E. Small, who for over half a century was connected with the Boston and Maine railroad, and a resident of Portsmouth for over fifteen years.

Cornelius Down passed the week-end with relatives in Salmon Falls, N. H.

AWFUL TOLL IN HUMAN LIVES

Basle, Nov. 14—Colonel Heussler, a Swiss military statistician, calculates the total losses in killed in the present war at 5,000,000.

Colonel Heussler's estimate of the number of fatalities in the present war is higher than any hitherto made whether official or otherwise.

Neither France or Russia issues totals of casualty lists, while Germany either combats her losses with those of Austria-Hungary or designates what is Prussian, leaving the other states of the empire to make public what they choose.

On July 31, Premier Assoluth announced to the British House of Commons that the first year of the war showed the total of number slain, based on German as well as British calculations to have been over 2,000,000, distributed as follows:

Great Britain	116,000
France	406,000
Russia	733,000
Belgium	47,000
Serbia	61,000
Japan	300—Total Allies—1,363,000
Germany	482,000
Austria	311,000
Turkey	45,000—Total Teutons 838,000

Grand total 2,223,300
Since then there has been nothing published by which a later total could be reached. On this basis, however, which shows a monthly average of 185,000, plus the slain, the total of the nations recorded, omitting Japan would be to Nov. 15, 1915, from Aug. 1, 1914, 3,877,334 to which may be added the unofficial estimates of those killed on the Austro-Italian front (Austrians 110,000, Italians 30,000) making a grand total of 4,017,334 killed since the war began.

The President's Flag

As a result of the voluminous correspondence between the war department and the navy department it has been finally settled what is the President's personal flag. The navy department was victorious and the war department backed down. Originally the army had a flag which was asserted to be the President's flag, and the navy also had one. Theodore Roosevelt decreed that the flag used by the navy was the correct one. In a recent parade it was observed that both flags were being used. A dispute followed. Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Asst. Sec. of the Navy, finally proved to the satisfaction of the war department that he was used.

ANGLO-FRENCH TROOPS IN BALKANS OVER 200,000

(Special to The Herald)

London, Nov. 15—The allies are reported now to have 200,000 troops in the Balkans and more are being landed at Salonica every day. While the German and Austro-Hungarian forces in North Serbia are blasting their way forward with their heavy artillery, the Bulgarian and Anglo-French forces are at a close grip in the south over a front fifty miles wide. The fall of Veleus into the hands of the Anglo-French forces is imminent as it is surrounded. A dispatch from Salonica states that the Bulgarians have taken Tetovo, thus preventing a junction of Serbian and Allied forces in the Valley of the Vardar river.

Twelve 4-inch guns taken from the Tennessee were today shipped to Charleston, S. C., yard for installation on the U. S. S. Olympia. The guns required the use of three freight cars.

WANT TRIAL HELD UP

Charges Against Fay and Companions May Be Changed.

New York, Nov. 15—John C. Knox appeared before Federal Judge Foster today and asked that the cases of the men indicted in the so-called German bomb plot be held up until new proceedings could be filed. The indictments were returned last week against Robert Payne and Walter Schott and others, charging them with conspiracy to blow up ships at sea. As a result of the great damage that would have been inflicted on the ships, it is believed that the accusation against Payne and his companions will be changed.

ITALY STILL CLAIMS IT WAS GERMANY

That Sunk the Ancona—Nine Americans Lost, But Two Saved.

Rome, Nov. 15—Officers of the Italian Admiralty takes direct issue with the Austria-Hungarian ministry of marine over the nationality of the submarine which sunk the Ancona. Italian officials claim that it was a German submarine. Ambassador Page has been notified that nine Americans lost their lives on the Ancona. There were eleven Americans on board and only two were saved. The entire loss is 209.

PICRIC ACID MYSTERY

New York, Nov. 15—"The romance of picric acid." Around that title might be woven a great romance of business and near business in this town. The story would have about a dozen J. Rufus Wallingfords in it, every paragraph would boast a spy or a counter-spy, every chapter would tell of a fortune won or lost, and every line would fringe with action enough to satisfy the most exacting publisher of "best sellers."

For the yellow crystalline explosive which drives mammoth shells twenty miles and devastates a city block in an instant is mighty scarce, and mighty high in price. A thousand men are prospecting for it and another thousand are stalking the prospectors to jump every claim, the minute it is stated out or to salt claims which will keep the seekers busy far from the real pay dirt.

Every real manufacturer of picric is a center of mystery and for every honest-to-goodness maker there are at least ten concerns which are either trying to connect the explosive and cannot or are trying to get orders which they never intend to fill.

The acid sold for 30 cents a pound in the far off days "before the war." Now quotations for "spot" or picric for immediate delivery are $1.80 to $2.20 a pound. But the quotations are an illusion because, as to spot picric, "there ain't no such animal."

If you are a buyer for a warring government and get an alleged picric acid agent to promise immediate delivery of 10,000 tons, the chances are 99 to 1 you will get nearer 10,000 ounces. Real deals are few and far between and when they do occur the recovery of a stolen Raphael is simple by comparison.

Between buyer and seller there are half a dozen intermediaries and a deep haze of mystery. The manufacturer sends his picric to some non-committal address in New York and then bills a bank for his pay and that of the agents. The bank produces the money but keeps a stiff upper lip as to where the coin came from.

The acid goes somewhere—perhaps to a munition factory, perhaps to some secluded storehouse where it will stay untouched until happier days.

There are a large, but unknown, number of fake manufacturers, dealers, agents and buyers in the field. Some of these are there for the purpose they pretend to be for, others are simply to collect information, while still others are meant to block, hinder and entangle instead of to further trade.

And every man who says picric acid about knows he has a dozen spies constantly at his heels, trying to fathom every step he makes.

The picric life is an exciting life, whether in the dugouts of Artois or Volhynia, or the hotels of Fifth avenue.

ALL-STAR BILL COMING TO THE COLONIAL TODAY

THREE BIG TIME ACTS AND A FINE PICTURE PROGRAM PROMISED FOR THE FIRST OF THE WEEK.

Another of the now famous all star bills is coming to the Colonial Theatre this afternoon for three days. Two trios and a double act are on the vaudeville program and there is none of the small time stuff in either of them.

Havlock's Military act brings a carload of special scenery and comes to Portsmouth direct from the Palace Theatre in New York city. It is one of the few really good posing acts with two men and one woman, an act that will be talked about with all the favor that has been given to other big time acts playing this popular house.

Heim, Washburn and Dears present a snappy comedy act built for laughing purposes only. Their business is to provide amusement through their singing dancing and talking comedy, and they know their business.

In the double act Dawson and Gillette are to present a real comedy hit in their "First Aid to the Gloomy" that will prove one of the funniest little acts the Portsmouth Theatre patrons have been invited to witness in months.

The picture program included the eleventh episode of "The Goddess" and the best of the productions of the Lubin, Essanay, Vitagraph and Mux studios.

FREIGHT STRIKERS BACK

B. & M. Terminal Men Reach a Settlement.

The strike of union freight handlers at the local terminals of the Boston & Maine railroad was settled in a conference between executives of the system and committees representing the strikers and the Boston Central Labor Union and Teamsters' Joint Council at the North Station late Saturday afternoon.

As in the settlement of the dispute between the Boston and Albany and its freight handlers and clerks, a third of whom returned to work yesterday morning, the officials of the Boston and Maine and the conferring committees yesterday refused to disclose the terms of the settlement. The Boston and Maine men's only announcement being that "at a conference between a committee of representatives of the freight handlers and the executives of the Boston and Maine railroad the question as to the return of the men to work was adjusted."

About 500 men were involved in the strike of the Boston and Maine. It is understood that they will return in large groups and that in all probability all will be back at work by Tuesday or Wednesday.

GIRLS' CLUB NOTES

Tonight at the close of the dancing and dressmaking classes, Miss Anna I. Vinton will speak on Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va. Miss Vinton lived at Hampton for two years and is familiar with the life and customs of the institution. The membership campaign which started Friday is well under way. One hundred new members are wanted for the club and membership is open to all girls over 15 years of age. Join during the week and help to swell the already increasing numbers.

There are two captains in charge of the teams, and at the end of the specified time, the losing team will entertain the winning team with a supper.

There will be an auction bridge party held on November 30th, the proceeds to be used for running expenses.

Last Thursday, several girls from this club were the guests of the Haverhill Girls' Club. The Haverhill club, though a younger club than ours has an attractive home which is centrally located, and which is presided over by Miss Edna Winslip. The general secretary, Miss Laura B. Knot, the Principal of Bradford Academy, spoke to the girls at this time, as did also Miss Esther Stosberg, the president of the Portsmouth club. The guests were very enthusiastic over the good time, and came home more determined than ever to have a home of their own. This dream can only come true through the united efforts of every club member and their friends.

The COLONIAL THEATRE

SAFETY AND QUALITY FIRST

Here is a show that we think is the best ever. The acts are so well know in the vaudeville world that they hardly need any introduction.

It does not take a great amount of space to tell about the offerings at the Colonial. They speak for themselves. The thousands of patrons do the advertising.

This is the program for today. Quality first, remember. There is something on this bill that will just capture every woman and child in Portsmouth. Look it over.

STRIKERS

REJECT OFFER

Nashua Mill Operators Will Not Go Back to Work.

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 14.—A plan proposed by the state labor commissioners and signed by the mill agents for settling the strike at the textile mills of the Nashua Manufacturing Company and the Jackson Company was rejected at a meeting of the strikers today. The reply sent to the mill agents declares that arbitration is the only proposition that will be considered.

The agents had agreed to take back at former wages, all strikers, with the exception of those who had been convicted of taking part in the disturbance since the strike began, October 4. After work was resumed, the agents' plan proposed a conference with the strike committee, with a view to fixing wages at the level paid elsewhere for the same grade of work, if the Nashua rate was found to be lower.

Fifty hundred strikers attended the mass meeting, which rejected the proposition today. The number out of employment through the strike is about 4000.

HARD TO KILL AN EDITOR

Judge Towne of Franklin in Auto Wreck But Makes the Doctor Wait.

Franklin, Nov. 14.—Judge Omar A. Towne had a narrow escape from serious injury Saturday morning when his touring car tumbled turtle and pinned him under its heavy weight. He was returning from a trip to Concord and was opposite the Hibbard farm near the Boscawen boundary when the rear wheels skidded, struck a stump by the roadside and the car overturned.

Charles Watson of Laconia who happened along in a touring car with two Judge Towne from his perilous predicament. After the touring car had been placed in the road again, Judge Towne unaided of his injuries took what was left of the dilapidated steering wheel, guided his car to Prescott's garage to have several necessary repairs made.

He then proceeded to his office and thence to the police court, and was busy with other matters until noon when he went to his home. Then it was found necessary to summon a doctor to treat his injuries. An examination showed very severe bruises and sprains but fortunately no broken bones and the popular editor and court justice is expected to make a speedy recovery from his injuries.

TWO SUICIDES IN ONE DAY

Jefferson, Nov. 14.—Two suicides in 24 hours is the record established here today. After an all night hunt for Moses McDonald, a well to do contractor of Whitefield, who has been building a new Episcopal church here, a searching party found his body this morning behind the lee house of the Waumbek hotel. He had borrowed a rifle from a neighbor and literally blew off the top of his head.

Saturday night, the body of Levi P. Pulsifer was found hanging by a rope in the barn of W. A. Thompson, his nephew. He had been in poor health for some time. He was to have been taken to the state hospital at Concord this week. Pulsifer who was 67 years of age came to Jefferson some years ago from East Pittston, Me. He was a farmer.

CHARGES SPIES HERE ON "TEUTON CARD INDEX"

Dr. Gorica Declares Officials Are Backing the Frauds and Outrages in His Reply to Embassy Attacks Made Upon Him

Providence, R. I., Sunday.—That Captains Boy-Ea and von Papen, of the German Embassy at Washington, and Consul General von Naber, of New York, have "full and complete knowledge of every move made by every German and Austrian spy in the United States" and are, in fact, the official directors of the system's operations is the sensational charge made by Dr. Joseph Gorica, formerly Austrian diplomatist, in his latest statement on the "Teutonic menace" made public here today. Dr. Gorica estimates that there are three thousand German and Austrian spies at work in this country under the direct supervision of the German Embassy. All, he says, are card indexed and all are ready to do whatever they are directed to do. The physician says that "no act, of violence, whether it be a fire in the munitions factory, the explosion of a bomb on board a ship or the establishment of a fraudulent passport office, springs from the demented mind of a single individual," but that all are arranged in advance.

"Men who can be trusted to go through with such criminal performances are selected and the whole scheme is worked through the system," he says.

"Individuals are simply carrying out orders that they get from above."

Dr. Gorica was in the diplomatic service of Austria-Hungary for fifteen years, and he asserts that he has exact knowledge of the espionage system which he professes to expose.

All Officially Listed
Among other excerpts of a statement which was published in the Providence Journal today are the following:
"Every Central Empire spy operating in this country today is officially listed in the offices of these men and their records are kept in card index form. There are, I should judge from my personal knowledge, about three thousand of these men in the United States today, and every one of them will do exactly what he is ordered to do and consider himself, as in fact he really is, a soldier under the direct instruction of his military superiors. No one of these men would dare to act on his own responsibility. In a foreign country before he had secured the approval of the representative of his government in that country. These men have to keep in touch with the military and naval attaches of either the German or Austrian embassies, or else with the consuls I have named already in my previous statement, and from them they secure all maps and charts, sailing lists of steamers and the precise locations of factories where ammunition is being manufactured.

"They have to visit the official representatives of their country in order to get the sums of money which they need to carry out their instructions. It is a standing order in all the German and Austrian Consulates that these spies are never to be given more than the amount of money necessary to the one specific job they have on hand at any one time."

Called "Dogs and Pigs"

"Do the American people think that Captain von Papen's somewhat innocuous statement about Americans in his letter discovered on Archibald is an isolated expression of opinion? The truth is, that since the beginning of the war in every German and Austrian consulate in this country, and in both embassies, Americans have been 'dogs' and 'pigs' and beasts whenever reference has been made to them. The people of this country do not understand the contempt with which these men view them, and their almost entire freedom from restraint in every illicit act they are performing."

"No passport fraud agent in New York, or Cleveland or Philadelphia, and these three cities are full of them, could live and do business a day without the sanction and friendly assistance of the Austrian and German of-

WHITLOCK, COMING HOME FOR REST, EXPECTS TO RETURN TO BELGIUM.

BRAND WHITLOCK
Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium, who sailed for New York on the Holland-America steamer Ryndam said his trip to America had no political purpose whatever. His sole object was to give him a short rest and an opportunity to get back his health, which had been undermined by fifteen months of uninterrupted work at high pressure. The minister looks like a man completely fagged out from nervous strain, but he said he confidently expected to be back at his post at Brussels soon after the new year. He has already arranged for his return passage on the steamer Rotterdam, sailing from New York on Dec. 28.

LOCAL HUNTERS.

When the truth is known concerning the actual sums of money that have been spent in this country for the purchase of newspapers, the subsidizing of college professors, the destruction of munitions plants, the hiring of halls, the payment of travelling expenses for hundreds of men who are constantly moving about the country and for many other purposes, the amount will stagger the imagination.

Are Too Fleet of Foot in Encounter With Bear.

A news dispatch from North Conway says that John Turner and Louis Soule of this city had a thrilling encounter with a large bear near Piney Ridge one day last week. Both of the young men were however fleet of foot and succeeded in keeping out of Bruin's reach. Mr. Turner is the popular clerk at Eben H. Blaisdell's store while Mr. Soule is prominent in the Little Bowery association. Notwithstanding these tidings from the hunters, the members of this popular association are in high fettle over the promised game supper on the return of the hunters.

GERMANS ARE FORCED BACK BY RUSSIANS

KAISER'S TROOPS RETREAT IN SHIOK REGION—ON DEFENSIVE
ALONG ENTIRE EAST-ERN FRONT.

London, Sunday.—Today's Russian War Office statement reports a further retreat of the Germans in the Shiova region. Semi-official reports from other sources make it apparent that the Teutonic forces have been placed on the defensive for the entire length of their Russian line and that they are steadily falling back, both west and south of Riga. While artillery engagements were reported from many points on the Russo-German front, Berlin and Vienna assert that all attacks on their positions were repulsed.

The Russians today appear to be centering their efforts in attacks against General von Linsingen in Volhynia and against the Austrian troops in Galicia. British experts attribute the favorable turn in the situation in the eastern theatre in part to the withdrawal of German troops for the Indian campaign, and in a measure to the heavy rains which have drenched the country for the last three weeks.

On the entire front from Riga to Dvinsk the Germans had been maneuvered into position where they either were entrenched in low land or were held on the outer edge of the swamps. Where they were along the edge of the marshes the Russians controlled all the causeways and roads. Rain and snow have been almost incessant for three weeks in Courland and along the Gulf of Riga, and while the Germans managed to hold their positions for a time the rapid soaking of the low ground and then its flooding drove them back and released to the Russians strong points of support not interfered with by the water.

The last week has seen the Russians taking advantage of these positions, especially around Ohl, on the Riga-Mitau Railway, and near Shioh, on the coast west of the city. From the protection of the abandoned works the Russians have launched attack after attack against the Germans which have netted them in some places as much as ten miles of territory. They crossed the Aa River near Shioh for the first time since General von Buelow drew the first lines around Riga late in August, and they have recrossed the Misa south of Riga and have taken up strong defenses in the Crown forest which stretches back to the east for nearly twelve miles from the Mitau Railroad.

From the Pripiet marshes to the Dnieper the Russians are in constant motion. General Ivanoff has been strongly reinforced with men and artillery and the guns are plentifully supplied with ammunition. The result has been a more generous use of shell than the army has indulged in for nearly a year.

A despatch from Harbin, Manchuria, says that Russia's last call for reservists took 3,000 men from that city, which has a population of 30,000. The whole country, the despatch adds, is now feeling the weight of the war in drains on its arms-bearing population and supplies. Troop and supply trains are leaving for the west on frequent schedules. Business throughout Manchuria, which is not directly connected with the war, is said to be practically at a standstill.

German Guns Silenced by Allies' Fire
Paris, Sunday.—Artillery fighting on an extended scale is reported in the latest official communication issued by the French War Office. The activity has been particularly violent during the last twenty-four hours in the district along the Aves River, near Andechy. Other scenes of spirited engagements are identified with La Ville aux Bois, where the battle line leaves the Aisne northwest of Rheims, and in Champagne, near the Meuse heights.

The communication follows:
"In Belgium, in the region of Boesinghe, our artillery concentrated a heavy fire on the German positions, especially on the 'Steam Mill,' which was demolished. This bombardment, which was very efficacious, silenced the enemy batteries."

"Other artillery engagements took place on the Aves, near Andechy, and (Lichelle St. Aulin, to the north of the Aisne, near Villa au Bois, and in Champagne, in the region of the Butte du Mesnil."

"Near Les Eparges our artillery compelled a cessation of the fire of the enemy mine throwers."

"A violent bombardment on both sides occurred in the section of FLEURY."

THREAT TO INTERNED MEN

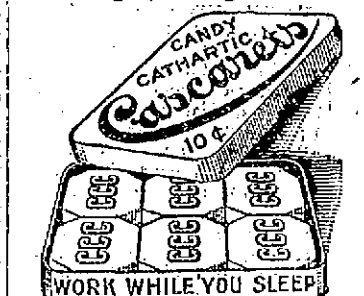

Marine Guards May Be Ordered to Shoot at Fleeing Germans

Washington, Nov. 14.—Navy officials are so stirred at the escape of a seaman from an interned German cruiser at Norfolk, following recently on the escape of a party of non-commissioned officers, that today they asked the state department to what lengths the marine guards stationed about the ships would be justified in going to stop the series of unauthorized departures. The possibility of bringing the Germans ashore and placing them in a guarded

ARE YOU A SKEPTIC?
Are you skeptical about the real excellence of our Wet Wash Service that so many housewives are finding so good? If so, just step around to our plant and see how the washes are cleansed separately, see how thoroughly everything is made sterilized clean, see the gentle but thorough machinery and test the quality of soap we use. The best way to test the service is to give this week's wash to our driver—the cost is small.

CHRISTIANITY IS CONQUERING THE WHOLE WORLD

REV. WILLIAM E. STRONG IN ADDRESS DELIVERED AT THE NORTH CHURCH, TELLS OF GAINS MADE IN PAST 25 YEARS.

Christianity is conquering slowly the world, according to the Rev. William E. Strong, Secretary of the American Board of Missions, in an address delivered last evening at the North Church. Mr. Strong took as his subject the question, "Is Christianity Conquering the World?" and his talk proved to be one of great interest.

Mr. Strong pointed to Turkey where he said that at the first glance it would seem that Christianity was making no progress against Mohammedanism and where the Turks were constantly massacring the Christian Armenians, but Mr. Strong said that the resistance and protest which was being aroused on account of these deeds proved that Christianity was making some gains even in Turkey where many of the people were far from in sympathy with the movement. In his opinion, he said that at the end of the present war the march of Christianity will be felt strongly in Turkey where many of the Turks are now in favor of it.

Mr. Strong said that the protest being made by many in the present war in Europe was one of the bright spots in the progress of Christianity. He said that we were looking for a better way to settle international difficulties than by fighting, and that this is only a result of a more Christianlike spirit.

He then pointed out the progress made during the past twenty-five years in Japan, China and India where Christianity has made marked gains.

In our own country Mr. Strong said that the joining together of the missionary bodies for foreign work also shows the marked progress of Christianity. He closed by saying that in the last twenty-five years the progress indicates that Christianity is slowly conquering the world and that everything points to its continued progress.

At the morning service at the North Church, Dr. Lucius H. Thayer took as his sermon subject, "Workers Together with God." His sermon was a review of events in the past twenty-five years and as many people have asked that it be published, Dr. Thayer stated that he would have it ready for publication in the local papers some day this week.

Yesterday's service was the second of the special anniversary services at the North Church in recognition of the twenty-five years that Dr. Thayer has been the pastor.

ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE

Two partners conducted a commission business in the Hessian capital. They obtained merchandise on credit and fraudulently sold their stock to small storekeepers in several cities. Their swindle netted them about 35,000 marks. Two of the partners fled to the United States, but Heiskorn returned to Lodz, his home.

When the war broke out he was called to the colors and in June he fell into the hands of the German troops. After he had been in a prisoners' camp for three months he was recognized as an indicted fugitive from German justice and his trial followed.

WAR HITS LONDON FASHIONABLES.

London, Nov. 15.—The war taxes are hitting what used to be called fashionable society rather heavily, but there is little grumbling for society has deeply altered its chief characteristic, which before the war was an abnormal self-centredness. Its principal problem now is largely what to give up without injuring someone depending on it. Young men-servants are a thing of the past, and the number of women now driving their own autos is sufficient testimony of the elimination of the chauffeur. Many fashionable women have even started garages, where other women of their own class can be taught the complete control of the autos, which are mostly used now for the benefit of the wounded and the convalescent. The many large hospitals financed by private enterprise are another call on the rich. Few women have given up their maids, but instead of employing them exclusively to attend to their wardrobes, they send them to do war-work for three or four afternoons each week, or employ them in making comforts for the troops.

RUSSIANS CARE FOR REFUGEES

Moscow, Nov. 15.—Day after day the crowds of refugees passing on the road from Brest to Moscow increase. Over 250,000 of them have entered the city. But the cry is still they come. Even now, after all the efforts which have been made to stem the tide another 500,000 fresh refugees are expected to pass through the great highway of Smolensk, the most important centre on the main road to Moscow.

In order to meet the tremendous demand for accommodation temporary barracks and specially prepared sanitary stations are being got ready for them. In addition, the Archbishop of Charkov has given orders for shelter to be found even in the churches, so as to do all that is possible for the comfort and sanitation of the unfortunate people.

GERMAN CITIES TAX CATS

Berlin, Nov. 15.—Many Saxon cities and communities have introduced a special tax for cats to raise money for the support of the families of soldiers at the front. This example has been followed by Prussian towns and promises to yield an considerable amount of money. In some cities and villages five marks (1) are collected for each cat, while in other places the tax is as high as ten marks (2).

The bill at the Colonial Theatre for the first three days of the week promises to be another big theatrical event.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., Nov. 13.—In an elaborate report just made by Professor F. C. Moore to President Fairchild, Professor Moore presents statistics to show how the students who are now in New Hampshire College happened to come here, what they expect to do when they depart, and where they will live, together with some interesting data as to their parents. The report in a most vivid manner lays bare the process of development from one generation to another of New Hampshire men and women, and the part the college plays in the transformation.

The statistics were furnished by the students when they registered in September. Five hundred and ninety-three answered the questions asked them, 445 in the four year courses and 118 in the two year courses.

Of the fathers of these students 58 per cent are business men, 29 percent are farmers and seven percent are professional men. Only 25 or nine percent of the fathers are college graduates and but nine of the mothers, or one percent.

The students are peculiarly representative of the state. Thirty-three percent of them have come from farms 31 percent have come from villages, and 32 percent from cities. They were led to come here for a variety of reasons, but the most powerful one seems to have been the attractiveness of the college itself. In fact 28 percent confessed to having come to Durham because New Hampshire college struck them as being a very desirable place to spend four or two years in. Next in order and affecting 19 percent in each case are the influence of parents or relatives, the influence of students or alumni, and personal ambition. Nine percent said their school teachers had influenced them to come here.

Coming then from parents who are not college graduates, these young men and young women intend to be college graduates with three principal aims in view. Twenty-nine percent intend to become farmers, 26 percent intend to teach or study, and 25 percent intend to go into technical or mechanical work. The other 13 percent are undecided or divided among many intentions.

These students who come to Durham come for the most part from middle class. Eighty-seven percent are New Hampshire boys and girls and almost half of them, 42 percent, have no intention of going to any other state after graduation.

SAFETY FIRST SAYS GARDNER

ASSAILS NAVY PROGRAMME AS INADEQUATE

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 14.—"If we are to have safety for our motto, for heaven's sake let's have 'safety first' and not 'safety in the sweet bye-and-bye,'" said Congressman A. P. Gardner of Massachusetts, speaking tonight before the Men's Club here on "Preparedness."

The speaker said that the navy building programme is to be spun out over a period of nine years, and advocated immediate action. He said that he is by no means convinced that the people will consider Secretary Daniels' building programme adequate, as it calls for less ships than have been asked for by the General Board of the Navy for years.

Congressman Gardner asked that other naval witnesses, including the President of the United States Naval War College, the Commander-in-Chief of the Pacific fleet and the recent senior advisor to Secretary Daniels, be called to Washington to supplement or discuss the evidence of the Navy Department experts.

GENERAL MANAGER RAYNES HERE

Head of the Phillips Corporation Arrives to Look Over Big Plant--Now a Busy Place

The big plant of the New England Steel and Ordnance Company at Freeman's Point, was a busy place on Sunday and the guards about the grounds had their hands full answering questions and keeping people away from the property.

The Boston and Maine track crew worked and there was a large force employed on the spur tracks. Considerable headway is being made in this line.

Under the direction of the officials of the company a gang of men was engaged Sunday in cleaning up some of the buildings, and today a force of carpenters were set to work. The office building is being re-arranged and the drafting room made ready for a force of men. The outfit is already here and this department will be one of the first started.

General Manager Raynes who will have charge of all the Phillips properties, arrived here today and with Resident Manager Fiske went over the work laid out.

It is expected that there will be heavy shipments of machinery here this week and the work of installing will begin as soon as possible.

More men are being added every day and the force will soon reach several hundred. A contract for a big painting job has been let and work will start at once.

CHURCHILL DENIES RESPONSIBILITY

Places the Antwerp Disaster on Kitchener.

(Special to This Herald)

London, Nov. 16.—Winston Churchill, the former First Lord of the British Admiralty, against whom more criticism has been launched than any of the cabinet officers, made his speech of defense in the House of Commons this afternoon. Mr. Churchill placed the whole responsibility of the disastrous naval expedition to Antwerp on Lord Kitchener and the French government. The former Lord Admiral denied personal responsibility for the Dardanelles campaign.

PORTSMOUTH THEATRE

(Music Hall)
F. W. HARTFORD, Manager.

Monday and Tuesday

After a change of entertainment at this theatre we will start our regular program for this week which will include five and six reel features of nothing but the best, latest and most interesting pictures. To start with today, we have a great six reeler called, "The Long Chance," featuring that famous historic star, Frank Keenan, pronounced the greatest character actor that ever appeared on Broadway in this magnificent dramatization. A western picture produced by Broadway Universal Pictures Co. Mr. Keenan takes the part of Harley Henning.

Harley Henning is a gambler at Red Dog Junction. He is secretly in love with Marie, the town belle. Marie falls in love with Corblay, a prospector.

Harley resents Corblay's intrusion, and tells him to get out of town; but when he learns of Marie's love for Corblay, he relents and leaves himself.

He buys the Silver Dollar Retreat in San Pasquel and in time comes to be known as the worst man in town.

Marie's husband, meanwhile, has gone out into the desert accompanied by his faithful Indian and Carey, a tenderfoot from Boston. Carey shoots Corblay from behind and escapes with the purses and the gold which they have won. Carey dies in the desert leaving a note in a canteen and an inscription on a small stone ledge, reading, "Stranger, give to my children and see that I get justice."

This is just the starting of the plot in this famous story. See the rest and you will say that it was a most excellent picture. Shown just the same with a small audience as with a large one, and it is most generally large.

Then we will show that great serial called "Neal of the Navy." This is the fourth episode entitled, "The Rolling T-er." Two reels.

There are only four feature pictures.

POLICE COURT.

As the result of a raid by the police Saturday night on a house on Bow street, a colored couple were before the court on a statutory charge, and each was fined $25 and costs. The owner of the house was charged with keeping a disorderly house and was fined $25. A jail sentence was suspended.

CHARLES HOBBS REFUSES TO COME HERE

Held by Haverhill Court in $1500 Bonds—Extradition Papers Called For.

Charles Hobbs, who assisted his brother, Henry Hobbs, in kidnapping his wife, Mrs. Millie Damon Hobbs of this city, was arraigned in the Haverhill police court this forenoon, charged with abduction. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1500 bonds. He refused to come back to this city and demands extradition papers. County Solicitor Hatch will apply for the papers at once and Charles will be brought back to stand trial in the county.

No trace of Henry Hobbs has been seen, since he got away from Deputy Sheriff Shaw early Sunday morning. The woods about Atkinson are being watched by Deputy Sheriff Wheeler and a posse, but he has kept out of sight.

It was thought that the storm would drive him out, but apparently he has found some shelter. It is barely possible that he may get away from that section.

Picture—"The Sultan of Zulu"—Vita-graph Comedy in 2 parts.

The Sultan advertises for an American wife, and a young seamstress applies to find him and his advertisement are both fakes. Hugbie Mack featured.

ACT—Dawson and Gillette—"First Aid to the Gloomy." A rollicking comedy hit.

Picture—"The Sacred Bracelet"—Lubin Drama.

The bracelet in question is stolen by a Philistine from the arm of an image of the Virgin Mary.

ACT—Heim-Washburn and Dears. Sonny, up-to-the-minute trio in a comedy singing, dancing and talking act, that comes direct from the New York Palace Theatre.

Picture—"Broncho Billy's Mexican Wife"—Essanay Drama.

The action in this picture certainly runs for this reel, but during this time swift vengeance overtakes Broncho Billy's faithless wife and her Mexican lover.

ACT—The act beautiful, instructive and historical—Havlock's Military sensational war pictures and posing. 2 men and one woman. Carload of special scenery and effects. An act that you will tell your friends about. Take the children to see this—your wives and brothers.

Picture—"The False Hair"—Mina Comedy.

This is the biggest and funniest one reel comedy ever on the General Film program.

Picture—"The Goddess"—Eleventh Episode.

Wednesday and Thursday

"Brute Force"—2 reel Biograph drama—a reissue by D. W. Griffith the "Birth of a Nation" producer.

MISS FOSTER IN GROUP.

The Boston Sunday papers printed a large picture of the Boston nurses which sailed today for England to care for the British wounded. Miss Dorothy Foster of this city is among the nurses. There are a number of physicians going, among them Dr. David Cheever of Boston, whose grandfather was a native of this city.

NEW COMMANDANT IS COMING

Rear Admiral Pond to Take Command of Local Yard Nov. 26.

Rear Admiral Charles Pond, U. S. N., who is to be the commandant of the local navy yard, will report for duty on Nov. 26 and will relieve Commander Klemann, U. S. N., who has been acting commandant.

Rear Admiral Pond has been in command of the reserve fleet on the Pacific coast and he left Berkeley, California, on Sunday for this yard.

SCH. MELISSA TRASK IN DISTRESS

Towed to Portland by Tug Piscataqua Sunday.

The three-masted schooner Melissa Trask, Capt. Hutchins, from New York for Castine, coal laden, was towed into Portland on Sunday in distress by the tug Piscataqua. While off the Isles of Shoals on Saturday she experienced a sudden and very violent squall in which she carried away her foremast head and mainmast. A call for aid having been sent ashore the tug Piscataqua went out to her assistance and anchored her for the night in the lower harbor, and Sunday towed her to Portland.

HATHAWAY—KIMBALL.

Jason H. Hathaway and Miss Nellie Watson Kimball, both of this city, were united in marriage on Sunday afternoon by the Rev. F. J. Scott. The young couple will reside in this city.

Melzar Dinkler of Hampton was here on Monday renewing old acquaintances.
